The hydrodynamic, biomass and sedimentation components are fully coupled in an efficient subgrid model framework in a parallelized computational environment.